Entering my third year with WinMan Volleyball Club. I am very excited to return. WinMan and I believe in the same things; athlete experience and development.

I coach young women to be fierce and to know that it is okay to be a competitive woman and want to win. In life, you have to be ready to compete and go after what you want. Success comes from hard work, discipline, and a desire to be the best you can be on and off the court. I do not have children of my own so my athletes are "my children". I treat them with respect. I will challenge them, and sometimes the feedback isn't always positive, but it will never be demeaning to them. Constructive criticism/feedback is what makes you better not negative, abusive, or embarrassing, so called feedback.

I look forward to working with a new group of athletes ready for a challenge to work hard and prepare to compete at a high level while enjoying this sport we all love, volleyball.

"There will be obstacles. There will be doubters. There will be mistakes. But with hard work there are no limits."
